Hello again, As I write to you in the midst of this Epiphany season, I'd like to share an experience with you—an epiphany, if you will. You may recall my writing last month about the taking down of Christmas lights; you may recall how I had lamented the darkness of winter, and yet was reminded of the light of Christ's mercy that shines through the darkness.

Well, days after writing about those things, it was my turn to remove the Christmas lights from the front yard and from the house. The day was one of those bonus days; a January day with temperatures in the mid-fifties. So, while I took down the lights, Emmett rode his scooter on the sidewalk and Teddy played in the yard. The experience came as I busied myself with the lights, and had my back to Teddy; as I worked, I heard him saying, in a playful voice, "Honk! Honk!"

I turned to see what he was up to, and there he was in the midst of our manger scene; with one hand on Baby Jesus he steadied himself, and with the other he reached up to Mary's nose—he was honking Mary's nose!

Of course, by the time I got my phone out to take a picture, that moment had ended. But the moment that followed was perhaps even more beautiful; Teddy reached even higher to place his hand on Mary's forehead, he caressed her face, and as he did, he looked into her eyes the way I've seen him look into Tanna's eyes.

As I looked in wonder, at that little boy playing with "Mommy Mary", the realness of Jesus humanity hit me in a way that it had never done before. Little Teddy caused me to ponder the reality of the child Jesus caressing his mother's face—gazing into her loving eyes while she held him close. I pondered the safety and comfort he must have felt in His mother's care; even while evil plotted to kill Him. And it brought a smile to my face to consider the innocence of little ones, and the possibility of the child Jesus honking his mommy's nose. This whole experience gave new meaning, for me, to the phrase, "And His mother treasured up all these things in her heart."

Thanks for reading.

FROM AN ELDER

As we anticipate Lent at the beginning of March, we might think about giving something up like deserts or coffee, which can be a nice way to remind ourselves throughout Lent that it is actually Lent. When we reach out for those things, we remember that we are denying ourselves in commemoration of Our Lord's suffering. This isn't meant to please God or gain His favor. Nor can such a small denial make Lent more meaningful or increase faith. It is simply an attempt to keep ourselves mindful throughout the day that it is Lent. That is a valid Christian desire and discipline.

But Lent isn't ultimately about giving things up. Instead, Lent is a season of preparation. We are preparing to celebrate Easter and the Church is always prepared in the same way: by repentance.

True repentance is not simply feeling sorry or an outward discipline for the world to see. True repentance means turning away from sin in sorrow and also turning toward God in joy. That is to say, that true repentance is faith. It expects forgiveness. It trusts in Christ to give it. Judas was not truly repentant (Matthew 27:3-5). He was only remorseful. He did not trust Jesus to love him. In contrast, St. Peter was repentant (Mark 14:66-72). He was more than remorseful. He was sorry for his sins and ashamed of what he had done, but even more than this, he trusted in Christ to be merciful.

Lent is therefore not so much a time of "giving things up" as it is a time for adding things that increase our awareness of God's mercy in Christ Jesus. When Lent leads us to repentance, it isn't to make us sad or to somehow get God's attention. It is to strengthen our faith.

So, as we near the Lenten season, how about starting our preparation now. "Giving up" certain things that consume our time so we can have more time for church, devotion or prayer, and of course, repentance. Focusing on turning away from our sin in sorrow and turning toward God in joy. Making worship a priority in our week for the joy of hearing God's Word and receiving His gifts. Then, by the means of Grace, continue the preparation of Lent all year long as we feed our faith by the promise given to us through the Easter message.

God in Man Made Manifest

The season of Epiphany focuses on how God was made manifest in the flesh of Jesus. The church spends time hearing of the miracles, signs, and wonders of Jesus in the world. And this made plain to all that Jesus really is who He said He was. He is the Second Person of the Holy Trinity, the only begotten Son of the Father, in the flesh. For “the Word became flesh and dwelt among us” (John 1:14).

It is revealed for all the world to see that Jesus is God in the flesh. It is made manifest by His words and His work, by what He said and by what He did. And these belong together, for “the Word became flesh and dwelt among us.” Jesus is the Word and will of God in the flesh, that is, He is the walking, talking enactment of God’s Word.

It is no different for us. We are called not just to believe in God in hearts but also to trust in God in word and deed. As James wrote: “But be doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving yourselves” (James 1:22), and again, “What good is it, my brothers, if someone says he has faith but does not have works? ... So also faith by itself, if it does not have works, is dead. ... Show me your faith apart from your works, and I will show you my faith by my works. ... For as the body apart from the spirit is dead, so also faith apart from works is dead” (James 2:14, 17–18, 26).

Our faith is lived out in works for our neighbor. Our trust in the Word and will of God is lived out not in word only but also in deed and in truth. In other words, the Epiphany of the Lord creates in us an epiphany of our faith in our works of obedience to God who commanded them. By this, our faith is made manifest to the world. It is, as Luther wrote of faith:

Faith is a divine work in us. It changes us and makes us to be born anew of God (John 1). It kills the old Adam and makes altogether different people, in heart and spirit and mind and powers, and it brings with it the Holy Spirit.

Oh, it is a living, busy, active, mighty thing, this faith. And so it is impossible for it not to do good works incessantly. It does not ask whether there are good works to do, but before the question rises, it has already done them, and is always at the doing of them.

He who does not these works is a faithless man. He gropes and looks about after faith and good works and knows neither what faith is nor what good works are, though he talks and talks, with many words about faith and good works.

Faith is a living, daring confidence in God’s grace, so sure and certain that a man would stake his life on it a thousand times. This confidence in God’s grace and knowledge of it makes men glad and bold and happy in dealing with God and all His creatures. And this is the work of the Holy Spirit in faith. Hence a man is ready and glad, without compulsion, to do good to everyone, to serve everyone, to suffer everything, in love and praise to God, who has shown him this grace.

And thus it is impossible to separate works from faith, quite as impossible as to separate burning and shining from fire. Beware, therefore, of your own false notions and of the idle talkers, who would be wise enough to make decisions about faith and good works, and yet are the greatest fools. (Preface to the Book of Romans)

So, then, let our faith be active by God’s power in the Word through the Holy Spirit. And let then our faith be made manifest to the world by what this faith does: serving our neighbor – in church, in the family, and society – with the works of faith in time, talents, and treasures.

That's Not My Job

There is a story about four people named Everybody, Somebody, Anybody, and Nobody. Anybody could have done it, but Nobody did it. Somebody got angry about that because it was Everybody's job. Everybody thought Anybody could do it, but Nobody realized that Everybody wouldn't do it. It ended up that Everybody blamed Somebody when Nobody did what Anybody could do.

PEACE TALK

Do you recall the time when you first discovered an echo? I'm not sure I do either, but I do remember having fun trying out that new found phenomena. Whether I was in a canyon or a cave, maybe even a school gymnasium, it was fun to shout something and listen as the words rang back to me multiple times. Hello, hello, hello, hello, as I call out and the sound slowly fades when it bounces from one side to another. I'm sure I tried all sorts of sounds and phrases just to hear my echo. It didn't matter what word I shouted, it repeatedly kept coming back. Jesus used his voice to create an echo to clearly describe that He was the living God to the Pharisees in John 8:58. He tells them "Truly, truly, I say to you, before Abraham was, I am." And a great echo it was... I am, I am, I am, I am, as Jesus proceeds to tell the world who He is with that echo through the gospel of John... "I am the bread of life," John 6:35. Jesus, as the Bread of Life, offers each of us life everlasting. "I am the light of the world," John 8:12. Jesus as the Light of the World, offers a choice between the darkness of sin and the glistening light of His presence. "I am the door," John 10:9. Jesus is that Door that offers the true path to salvation. "I am the Good Shepherd," John 10:11. Jesus, as the Good Shepherd, died to save each of us. "I am the resurrection and the life," John 11:25. Jesus, the Resurrection and the Life, will raise all who believe in the last days. "I am the way, the truth, and the life," John 14:6. Jesus is the Way, the Truth, and the Life, is God, and is our only source of salvation. "I am the vine," John 15:5. Jesus, as the Vine, our source of life... today and life everlasting. This echo however, does not fade away like mine in the canyon. Jesus' echo continues loud and clear since the day Moses asked God's name and He said, "I am who I am.... and thus I am to be remembered throughout all generations." Exodus 3:13-15. How blessed we are to have heard this life-giving echo and how blessed others will be if they hear it too. In fact, now I can shout my own "I am" echo... I am loved, I am forgiven, I am justified, I am declared righteous, I am redeemed, I am, I am, I am, given life by the blood of God's only Son, Jesus Christ. That message my friends is worth standing on a mountain top and shouting and hearing that echo over and over again. Dear Lord, thank you for the echo telling me who you are and what you have done for me. Help me to share that message with all who will hear, time and time again. Amen.
